NUMERICAL RELATIONS OF NATURE. Every one has observed that the leaves of SWAN & CO. CONTINUE TO DRAW AS some plants stand in pairs opposite each USUAL, WITHOUT INTERRUPTION. other, on opposite sides of the stem. In other plants the leaves are scattered over the stem; but in these cases, also, we find them arranged late attempt to injure our firm has shown that our Lotteries are drawn fairly! That our Prizes in the most regular manner. Commencing are paid punctually- and that our schemes are with any given leaf, for instance, we shall find more liberal than any other Lottery in the the next leaf above this, one-third of the way round the stem; the next another third, and the next another third, so as to stand exactly over the first. The series is therefore arranged in a spiral, which may be designated by the fraction 1 3. Taking another plant, we shall find the next leaf above any given one, two-fifths of the distance around the stem .-The next will be four-fifths-the pextsix-fifths and so on-each leaf moving two-fifths of the circumference, further around the stem -Here is a spiral, therefore, which may be expressed by the fraction two-fifths. In precisely the same way, we discover in other plants, spirals which may be expressed by the 4 Prizes of $900 fractions 3-8, 5-13, 8,21, etc. If in the case of opposite leaves, first mentioned, we consider each leaf as separated from the preceding by one-half the interval around the stem, we shall obtain the series of fractions 1-2, 1-3, 25, 3-8, 5-13, 8-21, etc. It must be kept in mind that these fractions are ascertained by actual observation. But notice the relation 4 Prizes of $400 ap'g to $70,000 are $1,600 | which exists between them. Each numerator 4 Prizes of 300 ap g to 30,000 are 1,200 is equal to the sum of the two preceding nu-800 merators, and each denominator to the sum 500 of the two preceding denominators. Knowing 400 this law, we may continue the series to any 300 extent-and it has been so continued, and 200 fraction obtained, to which plants have sub-100,000 sequently been found to correspond. Is all this the result of chance? Is it not rather

But the most wonderful coincidence is yet revolves around the sun in 60,000 days; Uranus the next, in 30,000 days; which is one-half the preceding number; Saturn the next, in 10,000 days, which is one-third of the period of Uranus; Jupiter revolves in 4,000 days, which is two fifths of the period of Saturn. And so we go on through the system, and find a law regulating the revolutions of the planets, which is identical with that which determines the arrangement of leaves upon the bumble stem of a plant .--This wonderful law is so exact and uniform The list of drawn Numbers and Prizes will be in its application, that before the discovery entto purchasers immediately after the drawing. of the planet Neptune, the botanist in his gar Purchasers will please write their signa- den could have predicted its existence and place in the heavens with greater precision than the French astronomer in his observatory. Moreover, an examination of this series of fractions renders it impossible that any planet should exist exterior to Neptune, though more may exist within the orbit of Mercury. Astronomers will therefore please take notice and not be found planet bunting in the deserts of space beyond the orbit of Neptune .-Prof. A Winchell.
